Mongolia Escorted to Pier at Dawn Yesterday—Many Relatives and Friends in Harbor to Greet Andover's Boys—Over Thirty Now at Camp Devens

Such a welcome as the Mongolia received yesterday morning, will not ever be forgotten by the boys themselves or by those who were so fortunate as to be there in the harbor. And many Andover relatives and friends of the Battery F and Battery C boys saw the big transport overflowing with happy, singing boys, come at dawn, up the noisy be-peopled harbor. With bands playing, whistles blowing, horns tooting and the well-known refrain of "How Dry I Am" reaching from water to land and back to water again, was ushered in the long-awaited day that brought home so many of Andover's well-loved soldiers. Right against the glowing sunrise sky, moved the ship toward its landing place, escorted by the thirty convoys bearing the mothers and fathers and wives and sisters and brothers of those aboard. It was more than worth the climbing out of bed in what had seemed like the middle of the night, and the long, cold ride. Even those who were

Welcome Home to Capt. Stackpole

Captain Markham W. Stackpole came home late last night from Camp Devens. He has been in France as a regiment chaplain for eighteen months and is wearing the three service chevrons.

This morning after chapel, his boys at the school, came to his home on Main street, and with cheers and much enthusiasm, welcomed him home. He spoke to them for just a few minutes to show how glad he was to be at home again.

Capt. Stackpole will be at home this evening from eight until ten o'clock and will be glad to see any of his friends.

Several Andover men who came last week on the Agamemnon, Mt. Vernon and America, have had furloughs at home this week. Others are still in camp. Capt. Sidney McCurdy has also been in town this week, so that with the excitement of uniformed arrivals everyday, "the old square" has seemed a most festive place.

Capt. McCurdy in Andover

Captain Sidney McCurdy has been at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Matthew McCurdy for several days this week.

He came back to this country on February 14th after having been abroad in service for fourteen months. Since November 8th, however, he had been a hospital patient and was not well when he returned.

Capt. McCurdy was with the First Division of the regular army, the one which went over with General Pershing and of the 27,000 men there were 23,900 casualties. This was the division with the most casualties excepting one, the 2nd division, and that had 24,300. With the 18th Infantry of this division, Capt. McCurdy was battalion surgeon and he took part in five great battles, — Cantigny, Soisson, St. Mihiel and two trips in the Argonne Forest. At Soisson on July 18th, when the German offensive changed to defensive, Capt. McCurdy was cited for bravery.

He and Mrs. McCurdy and their little baby, are to be in St. Johnsbury, Vermont until June, when they will return to their home in Youngstown, Ohio.

COPELY

"The Middleman," Henry Arthur
Jones' play which is to be acted by the Henry Jewett Players at the Copley Repertory Theatre next week, is a play that tells an interesting story in a direct manner, and, having a story to tell, and knowing how to tell it, the dramatist, almost involuntarily, creates character. The act in which the castrophe in his daughter's experience is made known to Blenkarn affords as fine an example of dramatic construction as can be found in the whole wide range of modern English drama—the blending of humor and pathos, comic incident and serious emotion, all tending to a passionate climax, being felicitious to an extraordinary degree.

The persuasive beauty of "The Middleman" is human sympathy and loveliness of moral influence. It stands for honor, manliness, generosity, devotion to duty, and fidelity to a high ideal of conduct, and it advocates all these things, not by precept but by example and suggestion. It depicts human nature with shadows as well as lights, but it lays the stress upon all that is good in that mingled yarn, and everybody who sees it, is made to feel that true success in life is to be just, and to do right.

The cast will include the entire strength of the Henry Jewett Players.
Attention is especially called to the popular Tuesday and Thursday matinees, at which the best seats are obtainable for $1.00.

"England Would Never Go Bone Dry" Said Admiral Sims

Escorted by a flotilla of destroyers
and naval airplanes from far out at sea, Rear Admiral William S. Sims came home Monday on the Mauretania.
Very different from his departure two years ago, when he went abroad to take charge of our American fleet in European waters, was the royal welcome
given him upon his return.

On the Mauretania Saturday night,
at the concert for the benefit of the Seaman's charities, he gave an interesting address and among other things,
said:

"In the beginning of 1918, Germany
was winning on the sea, sinking 600,000 tons of shipping per month. The Allies had no reply to it until they devised the convoy system which proved so successful and followed that up with the depth charges, which was a British invention."

"There is a great difference between the English and the American people,"
the Admiral added. "The British are passionately devoted to personal liberty and therefore I do not think that England will ever go bone dry."

This remark caused a little sensation
in the packed saloon and brought considerable applause. He added then:
"They believe in England if a man wants to poison himself, that is his own business."

To the newspaper men he gave a short interview, in which he praised the men of the merchant marine of the United States.

"Don't forget the men of the merchant marine," he said, "who stood by us at all times and did their duty in every respect. If they had not done so the work of our army and navy would stand but for little. You couldn't torpedo them to keep them back, and I know of instances where men have been torpedoed six times, and yet they stuck to their sea duty and crossed again and again. At the beginning, the navy did not understand the merchant marine.
They thought us a pink-tea outfit, and we looked on as hardy sailors, and that was all. Now we understand each other, and I am glad to say this of them: that braver men never went to sea."

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

Memorial, Drafted by Hermann Hagedorn, and Adopted by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America

He was found faithful over a few things and he was made ruler over many; he cut his own trail clean and straight and millions followed him toward the light.

He was frail; he made himself a tower of strength. He was timid;
he made himself a lion of courage.
He was a dreamer; he became one of the great doers of all time.

Men put their trust in him; women found a champion in him; kings stood in awe of him, but children made him their playmate.

He broke a nation's slumber with his cry; and it rose up. He touched the eyes of blind men with a flame and gave them vision. Souls became swords through him; swords became servants
of God.

He was loyal to this country, and he exacted loyalty; he loved many lands,
but he loved his own land best.

He was terrible in battle, but tender to the weak; joyous and tireless, being free from self-pity; clean with a cleanness that cleansed the air like a gale.

His courtesy knew no wealth or class; his friendship, no creed or color or race. His courage stood every onslaught of savage beast and ruthless man, of loneliness, of victory, of defeat.

His mind was eager, his heart was true,
his body and spirit, defiant of obstacles,
ready to meet what might come.

He fought injustice and tyranny;
bore sorrow gallantly; loved all nature,
bleak spaces and hardy companions,
hazardous adventure and the zest of battle. Wherever he went he carried his own pack; and in the uttermost parts of the earth he kept his conscience
for his guide.

"Neighborly Yours" in Lawrence

"Neighborly yours" is the way they will sign business letters and social correspondence in Lawrence in the future, if a suggestion of the Lawrence Citizens Committee is adopted.

The Citizens Committee has undertaken a campaign of civic betterment to get at and remove the causes for the mill city's industrial and other troubles, and it has come to the conclusion that all of its forty odd nationalities, speaking fifty odd tongues, must "get neighborly" if its more than 100,000 citizens are to co-operate in a movement for the common welfare.

"If all conditions in Lawrence were all right—satisfactory to all citizens
—there would be no trouble here," says the Committee. "We must either change conditions or convince those who are dissatisfied that they have no just cause for complaint. The first thing for us to do is to invite frank, free, fearless discussion of all our problems
in a friendly, constructive, helpful, neighborly manner. What is needed is not condemnation of what is evil.
What we need are constructive suggestions that will, when carried out, make Lawrence a cleaner, finer and better
city in which to live and work."

The Committee suggests that if all business and social letters exchanged between the people of the mill city are signed, "Neighborly yours" for awhile, it will serve as a constant reminder of the neighborliness campaign and promote the spirit in which the movement is being conducted.

The fourth dancing class for the pupils of Punchard High School was held Monday evening in Punchard Hall at 7.30. The class was in charge of Miss Loftus, who has given her services free of charge. Monday evening's class was the largest as yet, because all juniors and seniors who can dance are allowed to come. Manager Leo Daley of the Punchard baseball team, has announced the following schedule for this year. The schedule includes almost all of our neighboring high schools, but as there are a few open dates, Manager Daley is trying to fill these with Greater Boston teams.

Coach Lovely expects to have a winning team this year, as he has about all of last year's team back. Last year's team was about the best he has ever coached. It won sixteen out of eighteen games, Gloucester and Winchester being the ones to turn this trick, and these were close games. The scores were 2-0 and 1-0 respectively. The schedule is as follows:

To Our Heroes

Some one has presented the Library with that fine war novel by a Spaniard, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse." And, in spite of war weariness of horrors, the art of its literature appeals to one. In the beginning of the resistance of France, he says, "All Europe saluted France in her hour of danger." "Flags of all nations in the processions of the boulevards," "The North Americans with the noisiness of a somewhat puerile enthusiasm"—that stood, you see, for two years waiting—when only students who were over there to represent us. Again, describing the processions of "Enlisted men marching continually to the front, French soldiers separated from their comrades are so placed before us we cannot forget the picture."

"The gun was hanging from the shoulders—the back overlaid by the hump of the knapsack—the red legs shooting in and out of the turned back folds of the blue cloak—and the smoke of a pipe under the visor of the kepi. In the front of one of these men, four children were walking along lined up according to size. They kept turning their heads to admire their father, suddenly glorified by his military trappings."—Next the picture of the wife is given, "feeling in her simple soul, a revival of love, an ephemeral spring, born of the contact with danger."

And this soldier, a laborer of Paris—"a few months before demanding the abolishment of armor and the brotherhood of all mankind now was going in front of death." Then the parting, "a kiss to the wife, an affectionate hair pull of his offspring, and then he had joined his comrades—no tears—courage—Vive la France."

Oh, young Andover fathers, now and to be! We elders may forget the cruel tactics of the Hun and the injustice of our military machine shared by you with Washington at Valley Forge. But recall the markers, the papers of today will set up when the last bugle sounds over you. Remember the promise of the Great Comrade, "You have done it for the least of these my brethren. You have done it for me," and go forward for the new work to which we are called. A peace mission of laws respected and a rebuilding of the waste places.

We that are passing, and those who went before are with you in the inside world of influence and those to come will keep you safe.

Women: Huns and Vandals

In the program for the New England Conference of Suffragists, one of the topics to be discussed was, "The Necessity of Increasing Suffrage Sentiment Among Industrial Workers." This is already being done in Lawrence by Mrs. Glendower Evans and others. The results if successful, will give thousands of foreigners a splendid opportunity for governing the U. S. of America.

More than sixty years ago the historian Macaulay, predicted that the United States would be devastated as the Roman Empire was destroyed by Huns and Vandals, with the difference that in the case of the United States, the destroyers would come from within the country.

Senator Shafroth of Colorado, in speaking at the conference in favor of woman suffrage, neglected to call attention to the fact that "every socialist country and state in the world has adopted woman suffrage." In the United States, socialism has already gained control of North Dakota, and the first act of the socialist legislature was to pass a Woman Suffrage bill.

The "Recall of Judges," a measure to which Socialists look as a means of gaining control of government, has been adopted in Kansas, California, Oregon, Colorado, Arizona, and Nevada—all woman suffrage states!

The astonishing way in which women are purifying politics is illustrated in the following clipping entitled:

Women's Voting Influences

Fifty thousand more Chicago women voted wet than voted dry. Proving that the ladies are not pining for a drinkless Eden.

Some folks rashly predicted that when the wife got the ballot she would vote against everything her husband wanted. Utah offers the best evidence to the contrary.

Utah is the centre and the hive of Mormonism, and Mormonism has behind it the black record of polygamy.

Did Utah women vote Mormonism out of business? Not much.

EXTRA LONG WEAR FROM SHOES

T. D. Collins of Oskala, Hawaii, makes a remarkable statement which demonstrates the money-saving durability of Neolin Soles.

He writes, "After wearing a pair of Neolin-soled shoes off and on for thirty-three months, I wore them on a trip to the volcano of Kilauea and walked around the crater over hot lava six times and still the soles showed only slight signs of wear."

This experience is not accidental. It results from the scientific process by which Neolin Soles are made to be exactly what soles should be—comfortable, waterproof and exceedingly economical because of the long wear they give.

Get them on new shoes for all members of the family and have them put on worn shoes. They are made by The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company, Akron, Ohio, who also make Wingfoot Heels, guaranteed to outwear any other heels.

Eventful Week in Lawrence

Quite an eventful week has been developing in the Lawrence strike situation. On Wednesday it was announced that local mill agents did not care to accept the suggestion of Gov. Coolidge, in which he asks them to agree to arbitrate the strike of textile operatives through terms laid down by Henry B. Endicott. The unanimous opinion among them, seems to be that they have no concessions to offer and therefore there is nothing for arbitration.

James I. Milliken, agent of the Everett Mill, which has been closed since the second day of the strike, and John T. Mercer, agent of the Arlington Mill, which officials say, is only slightly inconvenienced by the strike, stated emphatically that they would ignore the statement.

Neither had received any official notice from the Governor. Until they do, they will disregard the matter. Asked what their answer would be if the Governor in a personal letter, should ask them to arbitrate, they replied they would refuse.

Walter A. Lamont, agent of the Wood Mill, and Robert T. Todd, agent of the Washington Mill, two of the largest American Woolen Company plants, said they had no authority to decide. They said it would be a matter for the executive officers at the main office in Boston.

George E. Kunhardt, president of the George E. Kunhardt Mill, said he had received no official notice of the Governor's statement, and until such time as he does, he had no comment to make.

Mr. Milliken and Mr. Mercer were firm in their statements. The former said he would not agree to arbitrate through Mr. Endicott, and the latter said, "So far as the Arlington mill is concerned, the strike is over."

Mayor John J. Hurley stated tonight that he was anxious to see the strike settled amicably and in justice to all concerned. He is willing to do all in his power to end the strike. "However," he said, "so far as the people of Lawrence in general are concerned, there is no suffering here on account of the strike."

The first of the week saw disgraceful actions on the part of the strikers, and they will have much to do to live down the bomb explosion episode of Monday morning.

The house at 48 Newbury street, which was the object of the bomb attack, is occupied by John McLeod, and was well filled with mourners attending the "wake" of a man who died Saturday. Suddenly the building was rocked to its foundations and the occupants thrown into a panic. The police were notified and investigation revealed the fact that clappers in the rear of the house, near the entrance, had been torn from the building. The floor of a court above the rear entrance had been pierced by some object, and four panes of glass in a transom had been shattered by a concussion. The only conclusion that the police can arrive at, is that a bomb had been planted, and that apparently, a mistake was made in the house selected. What saved the house from demolition, no doubt, was that those who placed the deadly machine did not put it in a more favorable spot. From the manner in which it exploded, and the course which its contents took, it must have been of a sky-rocket variety and apparently was home-made.

This all happened at about four a. m. From then on, the district of the city known as the "lower end" was in a turmoil. As early as 5.30 o'clock, two men were arrested for creating a disturbance. These men, when searched at the police station, were found to have their pockets filled with stones.

Strike pickets occupied alley ways during the early morning; they occupied entrances of houses, windows and every available spot, and started their day's maneuvers by hurling missiles at the workers. At first a small number of policemen were in the vicinity, but soon all available reserves were rushed to the scene. They started to ferret the pickets out from their points of vantage and the police, in turn, were made the targets of missiles.

A shot was fired from one window, followed by another, then came a fusillade. The police retaliated, and for a time bullets flew thick and fast. About seventy-five shots were fired. Twenty-seven arrests were made. The defendants when arraigned in court later, were held in $200 each for appearance April 15th. About fifty windows in the Everett Mills and one in the Holy Rosary Church were broken. Clarke's boarding house, at Common and Union streets, was bombarded with stones, and every window was broken. Two bushel baskets of stones, bricks and other missiles were conveyed to the police station as evidence. Union street, from Essex to Washington, was paved with missiles. Two police officers suffered slight wounds.

With all the various schemes for dividing the cost of running the Bay State Street Railway on a 50-50 basis today or a 60 to 40 basis tomorrow and so on, the public might as well face the conditions that actually exist in considering any and all of these propositions. The report of the company to the Public Service Commission for the year ending 1918 is a pretty serious one as evidenced by the following figures:—

	1918	1917
Operating revenue	$10,761,211	$10,902,516
Operating expenses	9,879,977	8,671,216

The coming of the 48-hour work week is no longer in the future, but is already here through the action of the Massachusetts Legislature this week in approving this time for employing women and minors. It is true that there are factories where the number of women and minors would not materially affect the working week, but they are the exception rather than the rule, for today woman is a factor in practically every industry. Facing this situation, unfortunate as it is that Massachusetts must bear the brunt of the pioneering, the general public has got to appreciate that it means a sharp increase in cost of much that is consumed. High wages, short hours and attending high prices are undoubtedly here to stay. None of this would be serious if in connection with it there could be genuine, old-fashioned thrift and industry. In no line of activity is this letup more noticeable than in the industries where building trades and skilled labor is involved. The 48-hour week could be borne, and under it much new building carried on, if there were forty-eight hours' labor returned for the forty-eight-hour pay.

Governor Coolidge is showing his pronounced belief in home rule in a most effective way in connection with several matters that have received his veto where the Legislature has taken it upon itself to pass purely local legislation in the interest of cities, not at all necessary if the cities had had the courage to meet the issues themselves. This is good stuff and shows that we need not have any fear but that the responsibilities of government, so far as the state is concerned, will never be neglected with Governor Coolidge in the chair, and in addition the responsibilities of local government for their own communities will not be usurped by the state while the same gentleman is presiding on Beacon Hill. This is good business in these times when everybody seems to be trying to "put something over" in the line of legislation.

Thirty or more Andover boys in one bunch have come into Boston during the past week, making up that portion of the New England contingent returning from overseas duty in the 26th Division. They undoubtedly may claim a place in the big war unsurpassed by any of the Andover boys in the service, and as such they will be doubly welcome when they are able to get back in their homes. The Townsman has a definite personal interest in this group because of the number of old employees in it, and already one of these, in the person of Top Sergeant Daley, has been a welcome guest at the old headquarters. About the nicest thing of it all is the joy that is being universally expressed by the men who are returning in the opportunity to mix once again into the life of the home town. This satisfaction is mutual.

A great many people are to be disappointed in their desires to secure reserved seats for the big parade to be held in Boston on the 25th. It might as well be understood at the outset that the ones who will be accommodated will be those who will go as invited guests of the boys of the 26th Division. It doesn't look as if anybody else would have much of a chance at any of the best places for viewing the parade and yet undoubtedly the operation of this rule will keep many good people from that pleasure. From rather intimate knowledge of the conditions we believe it may be said right now that no amount of pull is likely to change this situation.

Andover has a share in the responsibility of showing the proper kind of appreciation of the opportunity offered, by the coming to Lawrence of Frieda Hempel, to hear one of the world's greatest sopranos. This is not the first time that Mr. Saul has put the music-loving people of this vicinity under obligation to him for a musical treat. The support of his present venture should guarantee many other like affairs.

FRIEDA HEMPEL COMING

Metropolitan Opera Singer to be at Colonial Theatre, Lawrence, Sunday Afternoon, April 27th

Miss Frieda Hempel, who for seven years has been the leading soprano of the Metropolitan Opera, is one of the very few artists who combines the rare gifts of a great operatic diva and a brilliant concert artist.

As a singer of songs, doubtless the first one that will come to the reader's mind in connection with Miss Hempel is "The Last Rose of Summer." The simple Irish melody that has become as much a part of "Marta" as the Flotow score itself, is a song the public never seems to have often enough. She sang it at one of her opening concerts this season, and the critic wrote:

"In response to a hearty encore, Miss Hempel sang, 'The Last Rose of Summer,' which has delighted music lovers for half a century; but no one ever heard it sung as well."

And who will ever forget her exquisite singing of "Home, Sweet Home."

The prima donna's first performance of "The Daughter of the Regiment" this season came just as the glad news of the end of the conflict came from "over there." As an encore to the interpolated Proch Theme and Variations in the last act, she sang, "Keep the Home Fires Burning." It was the first time a popular song ever broke into grand opera, and critics still disagree as to whether or not so great an artist as Miss Hempel should make the innovation. But the audience appreciated the tribute of the singer, and not until she had repeated the song, was the opera allowed to continue.

Local music-lovers will have an opportunity to hear Miss Hempel in both songs and operatic arias at her concert at the Lawrence Colonial Theatre on Sunday afternoon, April 27th, at 3.15 o'clock.

Holy Week Services

A series of four public services have been arranged for the four churches in the center of Andover during the week of April 13-20. The people of all four parishes are cordially invited to participate in any, and all of the services. The general theme will be the words of Christ concerning his death.

And if I be lifted up will draw all men unto myself."

Tuesday, 7.15 in the First Baptist Church: "The Exalted Christ Revealing God" address by Rev. Frederick A. Wilson.

Wednesday, 7.45 in the Free Church: "The Exalted Christ Controlling Business" Address by Rev. E. Victor Bigelow.

Thursday, 7.45 in the South Church: "The Exalted Christ Feeding the World" Address by Rev. E. H. Prescott. The Lord's supper will be observed at this service in commemoration of its establishment on the Thursday evening in Jerusalem, the day before the crucifixion.

Friday, 7.45 in the Christ Church: "This is the annual union Good Friday Service with an address by Rev. C. W. Henry. An offering will be taken as usual for the Andover Guild.

It is hoped that the prevailing spirit of union among churches may show itself in the generous attendance upon all these services by many people of all parishes.

Rev. A. W. Moulton of Grace church, Lawrence, who has lately returned from France, will be the preacher at the Maundy Thursday evening service in Christ church. The rector of Christ church will preach in Grace church, Lawrence, on Wednesday night in Holy Week.

Good Friday Service in Christ Church

Once again the custom of many years will bring its annual opportunity for united worship. The people of the other churches in Andover are cordially invited to come to Christ Church for the Good Friday service at 7.45 o'clock on the evening of April 18th. The rector of Christ Church will be the preacher and will take for his subject, "Three Judgment Seats.—The World, Conscience, Calvary."
